Background Information on the Security

As more fully explained in the Prospectus Supplement (333-158663), the Strategic Accelerated Redemption Securities (the "Notes") linked to the S&P 500 Index due January 30, 2012, are senior, unsecured debt securities of Bank of America Corporation ("BAC") and are not guaranteed or insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC") or secured by collateral.

The Notes will rank equally with all of BAC's other unsecured and unsubordinated debt, and any payments due on the Notes, including any repayment of principal, will be subject to the credit risk of BAC. The notes provide for an automatic call if the Observation Level of the S&P 500® Index (the "Index") on any Observation Date is equal to or greater than the Call Level. If the notes are called on any Observation Date, investors will receive on the Call Settlement Date an amount per unit (the "Call Amount") equal to the $10 Original Offering Price of the notes plus the applicable Call Premium. If the notes are not called, the amount investors receive on the maturity date (the "Redemption Amount") will not be greater than the Original Offering Price per unit and will be based on the direction of and percentage change in the level of the Index from the Starting Value, as determined on the pricing date, to the Ending Value, as determined on the final Observation Date.

Holders of the Notes will have no rights as a security holder of the securities represented by the Index, and will not be entitled to receive any of those securities or dividends or other distributions by the issuers of those securities.

For additional information regarding the Notes, including the applicable risk factors, please consult the Prospectus Supplement, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission by BAC.
